RESTRICTIONS AS TO ROAD RACING

Have Been Taken Away, and Prizes of Value Over $50 Can Be Given by Race Promoters-Class B and Class A Riders Can Compete on the Road, Too-The Decision Very Satisfactory.

Since the two class rule has been established by the League of American Wheelmen, there has been uncertainty as to whether the rule would apply to a very important branch of the sport of cycling-road racing. At first the chairman of the racing board ruled that class B men could not compete with riders in class A, in road races, and great was the kicking that resulted. Finally the chairman submitted the matter to the executive committee of the league, and they have just rendered a decision directly opposite to the stand heretofore taken. The following received last night explains itself:

Sporting Editor, Intelligence, Wheeleng, W. Va.
DEAR SIE:—The decision on road racing will be: That the League of American Wheelmen will only recognize on the roat, pacing for or having pare insate by, or competing with a professional or riding for a cash prize on the road. The new two class rule will not affect road races, and the men may be run together.
M. E. RAYMOND, Chairman.

H. E. RAYMONS, Chairman.
This hardly comes in the nature of a surprise. It takes away the $50 limit for prizes in read races, and allows B men to compete with A riders on the road, which is the only sensible course that could have been taken. The INTELLIGENERS will now be able to effer a $160 wheel as first prize in the Intelligencer Decoration Day road race.

Linemen on Wheels, The Western Union, Postal Telegraph The Western Union, Postal Telegraph, and telegraph department of the National Transit Company have, says the Pittsburgh Times, issued an order to their linemen to supply themselves with bloycles to be used when they are sent over their lines to make repairs. The lines of the different telegraph companies extend for the most part along the public highways, and the wheel can be used to good advantage, and besides will be a creat saving of expense in the way of livery hire.

JUDGE JENKINS' DECISION.

He Declines to Modify His Strike Injunc-tion, Except in One Particular - A Lengthy Opinion.

MILWAUKEE, WIS, April 6 .- The long looked for decision by Judge Jenkins, on the motion made by chiefs of great railway organizations for a modification of his famous Northern Pacific strike order, was read in the United States circuit court to day at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The object of the motion was to bring to a direct issue before the was to bring to a direct issue before the court whether courts can grant injunctions to restrainemployes from striking. Judge Jenkins, after reviewing the case at length and giving his reasons for his decision, concluded as follows:

It is contended that the restraint imposed by that part of the original writ to which objection is made by this unction is in derogation of common right, and an unlawful restraint upon the individual to work for whoever he chooses, to determine the conditions upon which he will labor and to abandon such employment whenever he may desire.

The receivers employed in the operation of the property some 12,000 men. These men are responsible to the court for their conduct. The petition represented to the court—and the facts are confessed by this motion—that some of the men threatened to suddenly quit the service of the receivers and to combel by theats and force and violence the service of the receivers and to compel by threats and force and violence other employes who were willing to continue in the service to quit their employment; that by organized effort and by force and intimidation they would prevent others from taking ser-vice under the receivers in place of those who might leare such service, thereby causing incalculable loss to the trust property and inflicting great in-convenience and hardship upon the public. pel by threats and force and violence convenience and hardship upon the public.

The restraining portion of the writ complained of and now under consideration prohibited these men from combining and conspiring to quit this service with the above object. The writ was in prevention of the mischief arserted. In no respect, as I conceive, does that portion of the writ intertere with individual liberty.

with individual liberty,
One clause of the supplemental in-

With individual fiberty.

One clause of the supplemental injunction has been characterized as wholly unwarranted. That clause is " * * * and from ordering, recommending, approving or advising others to quit the service of the receivers of the Northern Pacific railway on January 1, 1894, or at any other time."

Whatever terms may be employed, the effect is the same. It is nonmand which may not be disregarded, under penalty of expulsion from the order and of social ostracism. This language was employed to fortify the restraints of the other portions of the writ and to meet the various disguises under which the command is cloaked.

It was so inverted out of abundant caution, that the meaning of the court might be clear, that there should be no unwarrantable interference with this property no intimitation as problemes.

unwarrantable interference with this property, no intimidation, no violence,

Since, therefore, the language of this particular phrase may be misconceived, and the restraint intended is in my and the restraint intended is in my judgment comprehended within the other provisions of the writ, the motion in that respect will be granted and the clause stricken from the writ. In all other respects, the motion will be de-nied.

TRAIN ROBURUS HANGED.

The Three Mea Who Killed Conductor McNally Suffer the Penalty for the

NEWPORT, ARK., A pril 6 .- The three train robbers, J. L. Wyrick, Thomas Brady and Albert Manstar, who killed Conductor W. P. McNally at Oliphant, Ark., November 3, last, were hanged here this morning. The drop fell at 7:55 a. m., and the men were pro-nounced dead at 8:05. All three necks

7:35 a. m., and the men were pronounced dead at 8:05. All three necks were broken.

The crime for which these men to-day suffered death was committed on the night of November S, 1893. About 10 o'clock that night passenger train No. 51 on the St. Louis, from Mountain & Southern railroad was hold up at Oliphant, a lonely flag station in Independence county, by seven masked men, who looted the express and passenger coaches. The robbers kept up a fusilade of firing all the time the robbery was being committed, and Conductor McNally, who bravely attempted to defend his train, was killed by a rifle bullet. About two weeks provious to the robbery half a desen young farmors disappeared from their homes near Bentonville. They rode ponice and were heavily armed. To their friends they said they were going to the Indian territory to buy cattle. The names of those farmers were Albert Manstar, James L. Wyrick, George Padgett, O. It. Truma and Pennyweight Powell, and his younger brother Sam.

Under the leadership of Thomas Brady, a whisky poddler from the Indian Territory, the agriculturalists left their farms, families and friends to become train robbers. Brady, Manstar, Wyrick and Padgett were arrested not long after the hold up. Padgett turned state's evidence and is now in jall awaiting trial at the spring torn of the Jackson county circuit court. His three companions were tried in February and convicted of McNally's murder. Pennyweight Powell was captured in Denver about a month acc and is now in prison awaiting trial. O. L. Trueman and Sam Powell are still fugitives from just.
